43. LOOK BACK AT ACF’S MEETING WITH THE CABINET SECRETARY ON 10 OCTOBER 2007

The ACF had a slot between 9.00 and 9.45 am on 10 October 2007 with the Cabinet Secretary (and her senior officials) during her visit to NHSGGC for its Annual Review meeting. One Member from each of the Advisory Committees was in attendance along with Brian Cowan (Medical Director) and Rosslyn Crocket (Nurse Director). Those who had attended the meeting considered it to have been very useful and engaging. It provided an opportunity to raise the following issues:

- An effective national IM&IT strategy
- Decontamination and the Glennie Standards
- Modernising Medical Careers
- Opportunities of the new pharmacy contract in addressing long-term conditions
- Out of hours services
- National enhanced services
- Impact of independent scrutiny in service changes
- Workforce planning

Sir John reported that the Cabinet Secretary and her senior officers had had three meetings in the morning session; firstly with the Board’s Area Clinical Forum, secondly with the Area Partnership Forum and thirdly with a patients’ group, facilitated by the Scottish Health Council. Following that, the Cabinet Secretary visited the Keep Well Project at Springburn Health Centre where she met with staff and patients.

Sir John reported that the afternoon session was the formal Annual Review meeting and was attended by around 400 people. Sir John had introduced the session by presenting the Board’s self-assessment on progress made to transform health and health services in ways that would bring many benefits to local citizens. Key areas were probed by the Cabinet Secretary encouraging interesting debate. The Cabinet Secretary had concluded by saying that it was her intention to engage further with the audience in future years striking a balance between engaging with those in attendance as well as probing Board senior officers. This approach was welcomed by Sir John.

When the feedback letter had been received from the Cabinet Secretary on the day, it would be included on the next ACF agenda for Members’ information.

44. ACF’S CONTRIBUTION TO THE IT AGENDA IN NHSGGC

At the last ACF meeting on 20 September 2007, Richard Copland (Director of Health Information and Technology) welcomed views from the ACF on how his IT Directorate could get cohesive clinical input. It was recognised that clinicians must be involved in the e-health agenda in Scotland for it to operate effectively and, as such, there was a real need to get clinical groups engaged in this work. Given this, it was agreed that each of the Advisory Committees should discuss how best their own professions could contribute to the e-health agenda and that this be further discussed at a future ACF meeting.
Members went on to discuss the sharing of patient information across health professionals using proper consent models. There was a distinction between managing data and using information that could be generated from this data recognising, in particular, that all health professionals did not require to see a patient’s full record – summary relevant points were, however, crucial to providing seamless care.

Margaret Hastings confirmed that in the Scottish Government Health Department’s consultation document “Better Health Better Care” there was a suggestion that a revised e-health strategy would be compiled. This would be discussed by the ACF when it was issued.

Richard Copland now received all ACF agendas and had agreed to be pro-active in attending meetings where IT was being discussed. The ACF welcomed this invitation and hoped to get regular updates on the key dates/milestones of achievements in regard to IT.
