Inspirational NHS workers ensure a healthy future

Greater Glasgow and Clyde’s awards event is an opportunity to recognise staff achievements.

IT’S important to recognise and celebrate success, said Chair of Glasgow Royal Infirmary Pharmacy Delegated Discharge Project Team: Tracey McKee, Six Book Challenge.

This 2016 Celebrating Success event features the 9th year of the Chairman’s Awards, the 30th year of our local directorate awards, and the first year of the province William Cullen Prize for nurses.

Helping staff workers from right across the acute, mental health and primary care sector will be honoured.

Support workers who keep the NHS wheels turning and the patients who inspire and reassure will be showcased, and one of the largest workforces on the continent will be recognised.

This event will be about the best - but no one should forget that there are thousands of brilliant and hardworking staff throughout our services who do such extraordinary work. Staff and patients need our support, care and profession of every day of the year.

This award was made possible by the support of NISGAG, a not-for-profit organisation.

NISGAG Chairman John Brown CBG, for and on behalf of the NISGAG Board.

WINNER: Dr Jan Deveney

For embedding art and therapeutic services to QEUH and RHC.

Inspirational NHS workers ensure a healthy future

Greater Glasgow and Clyde’s awards event is an opportunity to recognise staff achievements.

This 2016 Celebrating Success event features the 9th year of the Chairman’s Awards, the 30th year of our local directorate awards, and the first year of the province William Cullen Prize for nurses.

Helping staff workers from right across the acute, mental health and primary care sector will be honoured.

Support workers who keep the NHS wheels turning and the patients who inspire and reassure will be showcased, and one of the largest workforces on the continent will be recognised.

This event will be about the best - but no one should forget that there are thousands of brilliant and hardworking staff throughout our services who do such extraordinary work. Staff and patients need our support, care and profession of every day of the year.

This award was made possible by the support of NISGAG, a not-for-profit organisation.

NISGAG Chairman John Brown CBG, for and on behalf of the NISGAG Board.