1. Introduction

1.1 NHSGGC believes that everyone has a right to enter into marriage with their full and free consent. Legislation is in place to prevent an individual from being forced or tricked into marriage.

1.2 This policy has been produced to meet the requirements of Statutory Guidance on Forced Marriage (http://www.scotland.gov.uk/Publications/2011/11/25115331/0 make hyperlink) issued by the Scottish Government.

1.3 The overall aim of the Policy is to ensure our staff are alert for the signs of potential forced marriage and that any disclosure of Forced Marriage results in action to increase the safety and wellbeing of the individual involved.

1.4 The Policy should be considered alongside related NHSGGC policies and procedures including:

- West of Scotland Inter Agency Adult Support and Protection Practice Guidance;
- West of Scotland Inter Agency Child Protection Procedures;
- Gender-based Violence (GBV) Plan;

2. Forced Marriage and its Implications for the NHS

2.1 The law defines forced marriage as ‘a marriage in which one or both spouses do not (or, in the case of children/young people/adults at risk, cannot) consent to the marriage and duress is involved’.

2.2 The majority of victims of forced marriage are female but there are also male victims. People with physical and learning disabilities may be forced into marriage by families. Lesbian, gay, bi-sexual, transgender (LGBT) people may also be victims of forced marriage as a means of repressing their sexual orientation or gender identity.

2.3 Duress may be from parents, other family members and the wider community and can be psychological, financial, sexual and/or...
emotional pressure which is often accompanied by threatening conduct or severe physical, emotional and sexual abuse.

2.4 The health impact of forced marriage may include self-harm, attempted suicide, eating disorders, depression, isolation and substance misuse and victims may present to, or already be patients of, a wide range of services including:

Health Visiting, School Nurse Services, GP Services, Maternity, Learning Disability, Mental Health, Substance Misuse, Sexual Health, Adult or Child Emergency Services.

2.5 Cases of forced marriage should be tackled regardless of cultural sensitivities, using existing frameworks for protecting children, adults at risk and victims of gender-based violence.

3. Legal Framework

3.1 The Policy is underpinned by the following legislation:

Forced Marriage etc (Protection and Jurisdiction) (Scotland) Act 2011 [click here]
Sexual Offences (Scotland) Act 2009 [click here]
Equality Act 2010 [click here]
Adults with Incapacity (Scotland) Act 2000 [click here]
Protection from Abuse (Scotland) Act 2001 [click here]
Domestic Abuse (Scotland) Act 2011 [click here]
Adult Support and Protection (Scotland) Act 2007 [click here]
Protection of Vulnerable Groups (Scotland) Act 2007 [click here]
Mental Health (Care and Treatment) (Scotland) Act 2003 [click here]
4. Forced Marriage Protection Orders

4.1 The Forced Marriage Act allows for victims and third parties, specified by the legislation, to apply for a Forced Marriage Protection Order. Health workers are not specified as a third party in the legislation. If a health worker believes an order is required they should liaise with social work or police colleagues who are able to make applications directly to the court.

4.2 Any action will depend on the individual circumstances of the victim or potential victim.

5. Scope

5.1 The Policy applies to all employees of NHS Greater Glasgow and Clyde as victims of forced marriage may come to our attention anywhere in the service.

6. Roles and Responsibilities

6.1 Forced Marriage cuts across child protection, gender-based violence and vulnerable adult agendas and it is everyone’s responsibility to ensure victims are protected where forced marriage is disclosed.

6.2 The Lead Director for the Forced Marriage Policy within NHSGGC is the Director of Corporate Planning and Policy. Expertise on the issues around forced marriage comes from the Lead Officers for Child Protection, Gender-based Violence and Adult Support and Protection.

6.3 In line with statutory requirements all Directors are responsible for ensuring that managers are aware of systems and supports in place to ensure frontline staff handle cases of forced marriage effectively and all cases of forced marriage are properly monitored and recorded.

6.4 Managers must ensure that frontline staff have access to, and follow, guidance on what to do if they are concerned a patient may be affected by forced marriage. The guidance that frontline practitioners should follow is set out in Appendix 1 of this policy and will be widely distributed across the organisation.

Visit www.equalitiesinhealth.org for further information on forced marriage including good practice guidance and additional support services.

7. Training

7.2 Lead Officers for Adult Support and Protection, Child Protection, Gender-Based Violence, suicide prevention and self-harm must ensure training and awareness –raising on forced marriage is incorporated into training materials.

8. Communication and Dissemination

8.1 The Policy is available via www.staffnet.ggc.scot.nhs.uk/Applications/PM/Pages/nhsggcPolicyManual2.aspx

8.3 The Policy will come into effect on 20th August 2012.(tbc)

9. Review

9.1 The Policy is due for review in April 2015 unless changes in legislation, service requirements or national guidance require the Policy to reviewed before that date.

10. Monitoring

10.1 NHSGGC will monitor and evaluate the effectiveness of this Policy in line with existing guidance for protecting adults and children at risk of harm.
Appendix 1

Forced Marriage Guidance for Health Workers

This guidance aims to support NHSGGC health workers to identify and respond to patients who may be victims of forced marriage.

Legislation is in place to prevent an individual from being forced or tricked into marriage.

Contact with a health worker may be the one chance for a person who is at risk of being forced into marriage or is already in a forced marriage to get help and protection.

We are therefore asking all health workers to look out for the signs of forced marriage and take action when you see them.

Any combination of the following factors may indicate that a person is being or has been forced to marry:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Health Indicators</th>
<th>Groups most at risk</th>

<td>Self-harm</td>

<td>Women from other ethnic communities</td>

If you have a concern that a patient may be a victim of forced marriage you should take the following steps, considering the appropriate option at each step

1. Arrange private space to speak to the person 1-1

2. Arrange for interpreting services if required. Provide choice of gender where possible. Assess and address communication support needs. Never use accompanying person as interpreter.

3. Advise patient about confidentiality policy and enquire about the situation to establish if forced marriage is an issue.

4. Forced marriage disclosed or not disclosed but concerns remain

5. Assess risk of harm to patient, and explore options and possible outcomes with patient.

6. Forced marriage disclosed

   a. Low risk of immediate harm

   b. High risk of harm

   i. Contact the National Domestic Abuse Helpline for advice on how to proceed & present options to victim.

7. Victim wants no action taken

   i. There are vulnerable adult or child protection concerns about other family members ii. Agree information to be shared, with whom and why in line with NHSGGC information sharing policy.

8. If patient under 18 follow Child Protection Procedures. If patient meets definition of adult at risk under terms of Adult Support and Protection (ASP) legislation, follow ASP referral procedures.

9. Concerns alleviated – no action required

   i. Agree safety plan including how any future contact with the patient by your service will be made safely (e.g. code word). Provide national helpline number and website details.

10. Agree course of action

11. Provide national domestic abuse helpline number and forced marriage website details

12. Contact NHSGGC contacts or Standby Social Work (see page 9 below) and follow advice

13. Document in line with services recording procedures

Visit www.equalitiesinhealth.org for further information on forced marriage including good practice guidance and additional support services.
1. FURTHER INFORMATION ABOUT THE PATHWAY

- Staff should remember that risks to victims may be increased by all forms of counselling, mediation, arbitration and conciliation involving the family.

- Interpreting services should be arranged using NHSGGC protocol. If no face to face interpreter available arrange for telephone interpreting. To provide continuity, the interpreter should accompany the patient to the support service where possible.

- To enable private time, direct anyone accompanying the patient to the waiting area. Ensure you speak to patient in an area where the conversation will not be overheard. If possible use a room with telephone access to allow the patient to make calls direct to support services where necessary and for ease of access to interpreting services if dual handset is not available.

- When assessing risk always take the issues and concerns of the victim seriously and recognise the potential risk of very significant harm to the victim. Asking the following questions can help to assess level of risk and inform options and possible outcomes for patient:
  - Is there a risk that patient may be taken abroad imminently? Is access to passport/ money being withheld from her/ him? Has s/he attempted suicide or self harmed? Is there potential harm to other family members?
  - Is victim minimising risk?

- Seek agreement for referral to other agencies. If victim wants no action taken and there are no vulnerable adult or child protection concerns agree a safety plan and safe way to contact victim. Where a decision is taken to refer to police without permission you should tell the patient why. Keep the patient informed of progress on the agreed course of action.

- Keep the patient safe in the private area while awaiting transport to support service.
• Staff should note the importance of inter-agency working in protecting victims of forced marriage and co-operating with locally agreed multi-agency information sharing procedures.

• Information should only be disclosed with the victims consent unless there is a statutory duty to share information, such as in vulnerable adult or child protection cases.

• Document disclosures and actions in the patient record. Be aware documentation may be used as evidence in the event of any criminal justice proceedings.
