

Core brief

Wednesday, 13 December 2017

Introduction

This issue include a link to a Scottish Government press release on funding and a thank you from the Chief Executive to everyone who has had their flu jab.

Health Secretary Shona Robison has issued a public statement/press release outlining additional funding of £22.4m for NHS Boards to support winter plans.

Click here to view the full statement.

This will see a proportionate amount of extra funding coming to Greater Glasgow and Clyde to support our local winter resilience plans. We are already seeing the first signs of flu and other winter impacts on service demands.

Jane Grant, CEO, said: "I want to thank staff right across our services for all the work that has gone in to preparing for winter and also to thank the 14,000 staff who have agreed to protect themselves and their patients from flu by accepting a free flu vaccination. For those staff who haven't yet had their flu jab there are teams of roving vaccinators working around key sites to make it as easy as possible for you to get protected."

Are your contact details up-to-date? Click here to check