

Core brief

Monday 14 May 2018

Introduction

This issue of Core Brief features the latest edition of Health News and information on Learning Disability Week.

Health News

The latest copy of Health News is out now.

Health News is our publication for patients, visitors and staff, featuring great stories about you and the latest developments across the organisation.

If you would like to feature in Health News, email: sandra.bustillo@ggc.scot.nhs.uk

Click here to read this month's fantastic stories.

Learning Disability Week 14 - 20 May

2018 marks the 'Year of Young People' in Scotland, and the theme for Learning Disability Week set by the Scottish Consortium for Learning Disability reflects this; 'My Generation'. Learning Disability week focuses our attention on the experiences of young people with learning disabilities in Scotland. The week is also about celebrating the lives of all people with a learning disability, reminding us that we all have a part to play in empowering and supporting people with a learning disability to be able to live healthy lives as equal members in their own communities.

Learning disability services across NHSGGC have various events and activities organised in order to mark and celebrate the week.

It is set to be a great week and the weather is also looking very promising too.

Visit the Hot Topic section on StaffNet to view the table of events.

Are your contact details up-to-date? Click here to check