Introduction

This issue brings you news about the new NHSScotland Photolibrary and the latest NHSGGC news update.

New NHSScotland Photolibrary

The NHSScotland Photolibrary is managed by the Scottish Government, NHS Greater Glasgow and Clyde and NHS Education for Scotland. The site provides access to high quality, free to use, fully consented photography representing modern health and social care in NHSScotland.

Working with our supplier, Capture Ltd, we have developed a new interface for the photolibrary. This is due to go live today, using the same web address: https://nhsscotlandphotolibrary.org/

If you are a registered user of the site you will keep the same password, and access should be the same as at the moment. We have transferred over all the images held on the old site, and thanks to contributions from NHS Boards, we will shortly be commissioning new photography to add to this.

In terms of functionality, the new site offers:

- a more modern interface which is responsive to different screen formats, e.g. phones and tablets
- bigger previews and thumbnails
- easier sharing of images: if you create a lightbox, you can then share it with colleagues rather than them having to create their own (details available through the Help function if needed)
- refreshed terms and conditions to reflect GDPR requirements
- a Help function under the question-mark icon

We hope you find the new site easy to use. We will be doing ongoing work to update some of the tags and to keep improving the site.

If you have any problems, or if you have any suggestions on how we can improve it further, please contact the team on: nhss@capture.co.uk
