

Volunteers Needed for MRI Scans

The MRI Research Team at Queen Elizabeth University Hospital is looking for volunteers to undergo an MRI scan so that we can test and optimise new techniques before they are used in clinical research studies.

The scan can be of any region of the body, depending on the new techniques which are being tested at the time.

The MRI scan will take between 30 minutes and 2 hours (usually within working hours), and you must be between 16 – 80 years old.

If you might be interested in joining our “volunteer bank”, please contact Clinical Research Imaging Facility for further information.

Please note: There are no clinical or diagnostic benefits for volunteers in our studies. We are unable to offer payment for volunteering.

MRI optimisation scans have been approved by West of Scotland Research Ethics Committee 3
